Our Mission

Sustainable Development : It's practical !!

What we think...

We believe that the practical initiatives of sustainable development aren't broadcasted enough to a large audience and those that are, not always the most relevant. To far too many, Sustainable Development maintains an image of an inapplicable theory. Without practical illustrations showing its efficiency, it can raise indifference or even suspicion.

What we do...

Demonstrate that a sustainable world is possible by studying real sustainable development initiatives and the men and women who initiate them. That includes :

- Define and select relevant initiatives
- Analyze its goals, means and results
- Understand the drivers of the entrepreneur's motivation.

Thanks to the help of experts, as well as through active research, we will study innovative projects and select the best practices with the following aspects: originality, accessibility and duplicability. Then, we'll check locally, thanks to the help of NGOs the true level of commitment of the project. Finally, we'll meet the entrepreneur to understand his or her motivations, as well as the practical results of their individual projects/businesses."

What we look for...

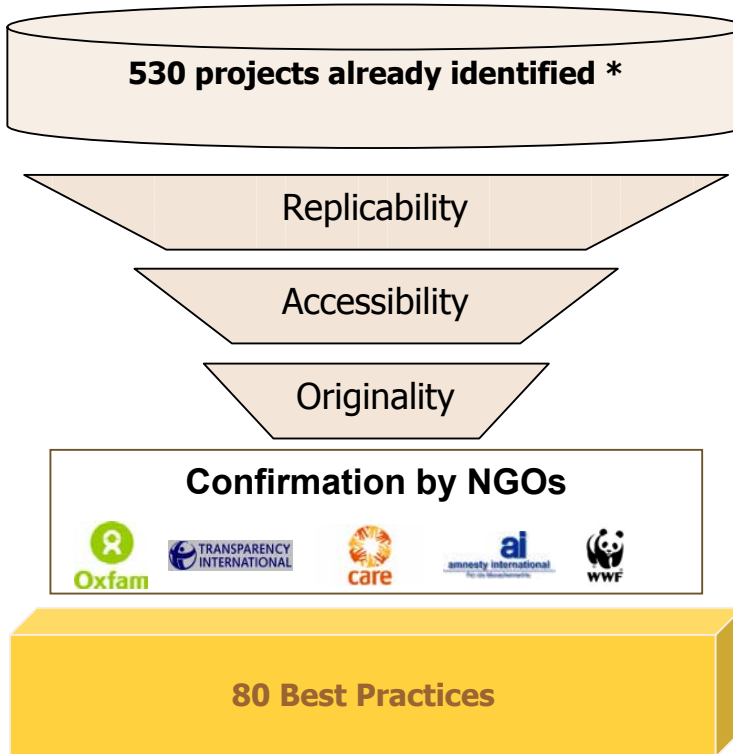

Our main goal is to convince that a sustainable world is possible; applying new methods and convincing everyone (as a manager, consumer, investor or citizen) is a potential change maker.

The Cast (1/2)

Best-Practices...

Beware of false good ideas !!!

Select the « best practices »

- Identify a high number of projects
- Keep room for on-site discoveries
- Select the most meaningful ones

The Cast (2/2)

... led by amazing people.

More than best-practices, we'll try to meet with men and women of exception

Communicative Optimists

Pragmatics for human results

Changemakers

Entrepreneurs looking for reasonable compromises
